

ALIEN ENEMIES MUST BE REGISTERED

Registration of alien enemies has been begun by Postmaster J. J. McQuillan for the United States of America, acting under instructions from the department of justice.

Persons required to register should understand that in so doing they are giving proof of their peaceful dispositions and of their intention to conform to the laws of the United States.

Every registrant should read carefully the form of registration affidavit handed to him and ask the registration officer for explanation on all points not clear to him before attempting to fill out the blanks. Registration officers are instructed to give registrants all possible aid in the way of explanation and advice.

Each registrant is required to furnish four unmounted photographs of himself, not larger than 3x5 inches in size, on thin paper, with light background. All four photographs should be signed by the registrant across the face of the photographs, so as not to obscure the features, if the applicant is able to write.

Three blank forms of registration affidavit must be completely filled out by the registrant or his representative (with the exception of the one instance the French aviators defeated an attempt of German fliers to cross behind the American trenches.

The artillery and snipers also have become increasingly active. American 75's are harassing traffic behind the enemy trenches. The Germans are confining their fire largely to the American trenches.

Throughout Friday night machine guns rattled ceaselessly from German positions.

The correspondents permanently accredited to the American army have been informed that they may proceed to virtually any point within the zone of fire, except the trenches, without escort and without special permission. Arrangements were made whereby newspaper men may proceed to any brigade headquarters a few kilometers behind the front after first reporting their presence within the zone to the headquarters of the division of which the brigade is a part. Unless there is some occurrence which makes it inadvisable in the opinion of the brigade commander for correspondents to move nearer the front, they may walk from his headquarters to regimental headquarters behind the lines.

Since all roads immediately behind the front are within easy German gun range and under German observation, not more than two correspondents may move forward together. They must wear gas masks in alert positions and helmets. Newspaper men must obtain special permission to visit the trenches and must be accompanied by an escorting officer.

The fact that American troops were in the trenches in Lorraine was revealed by the German war office three months ago. At that time, according to an official German announcement, the Americans were on the front at the Rhine-Marne canal, which intersects the battle line near the German border, due east of Nancy. This announcement was made in the official report from Berlin of the first German raid on the American positions, in which three Americans were killed, five wounded and twelve captured.

The eastern end of the battle line in France and Belgium runs through French and German Lorraine, French Lorraine, in which is the American sector, is included in the departments of Meuse, the capital of which is Verdun; Meurthe-et-Moselle, whose capital is Nancy, and Vosges, with the capital at Epinal. The length of the front in French Lorraine is about 160 miles.

This section of the battle line extends into the Meuse from the Marne near St. Mihiel, and runs eastward to the north of Verdun, south to St. Mihiel and east to the German border. There it turns to the southeast and almost parallels the border to the vicinity of Leintry. Below Leintry it cuts across a section of French soil, past Badonviller and Senones and to the east of St. Die, and again crosses the German border at a point west of Colmar. The remainder of the line to the Swiss boundary is in Germany.

Since the battle of Verdun there has been no fighting of great importance along this front. For the most part it runs through high and broken country. Since the present battle line was established early in the war there has been comparatively little activity on the front to the east of the Verdun sector, the nature of the country making large operations impracticable.

BUTLERS BUY A HOME IN SOUTH

BIRD ROCK, THEIR WINTER HOME, IS KNOWN AS THE NEWPORT OF THE PACIFIC.

Word comes to the Bonanza from San Diego that James L. Butler, the father of Tonopah, has purchased the beautiful home of Theodore Hall, a nephew of H. J. Hall of Tonopah. Theodore Hall is proprietor of the Tioga hotel in San Diego. The residence is situated at Bird Rock. This is a beautiful residence tract in the suburbs of that city, with a steam railroad passing through its center. Quite a few Tonopah people have purchased lots and erected residences in this addition. It is only a five minutes' walk to the beach, where bathing is enjoyed throughout the year. Bird Rock is now known as the Newport of the Pacific and is fast being built up with palatial residences. Mr. and Mrs. Butler will continue to spend their summers in Inyo county, but their new purchase will be their winter home. M. Hall, brother of H. J. Hall, is the owner of this beautiful residence district.

IN NEW LOCATION.

The Bandbox barbership is now in its new location, next door to the Tonopah Liquor company.

SOPHOMORE CLASS ACTS AS THE HOST

The sophomore class of the high school Friday evening entertained the faculty and students of the high school at one of the most enjoyable parties ever given by the school. A committee of students and teachers had been appointed several days previously to prepare a program of fun for the evening and the committee evidently had done some earnest work in preparing to see that all were entertained. The members present were divided into two classes—the Reds and the Blues—for contesting in the various games, and it was announced that the losers were to entertain the winners at another party later in the winter. Some of the games played were: Tag-of-war, by girls of the Reds against girls of the Blues, the latter winning; the same game with the boys against boys, the Blues again winning the contest; swatting contest, won by the Reds; peanut race, won by the Blues; cracker-eating contest, won by the Blues, and a new fangled baseball game played with coins. The lucky Blues again coming out ahead. This gives the Reds the pleasure of entertaining the Blues the next time. Of the faculty Messrs. Cross, Chapman and Drawing and Misses Russell, Murphy, Sullivan and Jewett were present. After the games had been played refreshments were served and the guests departed for their homes feeling that the sophomores had made a great success of their party.

AMUSEMENTS

AT THE BUTLER.

At the popular little play house today George M. Cohan, the popular actor-author-producer of both the theatrical and film worlds, will appear in his second photoplay, "Seven Keys to Baldpate," one of Mr. Cohan's greatest Broadway sensations. This play is adapted from the book of the same name by Earl Deer Riggers and scored an emphatic hit all over the country several years ago. As a motion picture vehicle for the inimitable comedian, it offers an admirable subject in which to present to good advantage his adaptabilities to motion picture presentation. Announced as "mystery farce," this picture is confidently expected to amaze and thrill to much greater extent than ever the original play. Several distinct twists to the story, which tells of how an ambitious author of hair-raising literature won a wager to write a 10,000-word story in twenty-four hours, are evinced with startling result. Many humorous situations are presented in typical Cohanesque style and a surprising climax, such as has never before been presented on the screen, is suddenly displayed with telling effect. George M. Cohan's recipe for a happy entertainment as presented tonight is an ideal prescription for the most morbid grouch. In his new film tonic George M. has mixed with exact proportions mystery, thrill and laughter, with a sweetening dash of love as a tribute to Cupid, all of which will work the desired result upon men, women and children alike. See Hearst-Pathé-News "Coal Plenty in Newark," "Annual Rose Festival," "Oil Industry Booms," "Bees to Sting the Kaiser."

Tomorrow, George Walsh, in "The Pride of New York."

Thursday, Marguerite Clark, in "The Amazons."
